Diclofenac - Why is this medication prescribed?

Diclofenac is a type of medicine called a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) and is used to relieve pain and inflammation in arthritis. Diclofenac works by blocking the action of a substance in the body called cyclo-oxygenase (COX). Cyclo-oxygenase is involved in producing prostaglandins, in response to injury or certain diseases, such as arthritis. These prostaglandins cause pain, swelling, and inflammation. Diclofenac blocks the production of these prostaglandins and so is effective at relieving pain and inflammation

TrepadoneTM - Why is this medication prescribed?

Trepadone is a Medical Food formulated for the nutritional management of pain and inflammation related to joint disorders. Trepadone is formulated to stimulate the production of the neurotransmitters serotonin, nitric oxide, GABA and acetylcholine that are involved in pain and inflammation related to joint disorders. Trepadone also supplies chondroitin and glucosamine and omega-3-FFAs. Chondroitin and glucosamine provide the building blocks for joint cartilage repair. Omega-3-FFAs cause prostaglandin-lowering effects by blocking the production of arachidonic acid. Trepadone provides L-arginine at low dose along with L-glutamine to activate the NMDA and opioid receptors.

Trepadone aids in the nutritional management of serotonin, GABA, and acetylcholine requirements in patients with pain and inflammation syndromes, including osteoarthritis.
